

Golling an der Salzach 1963

It is located on the southern rim of the Tennengau region south of the city of Salzburg. Here at the confluence of the Salzach and its Lammer tributary, the river leaves the Salzachöfen Gorge between the Berchtesgaden Alps and the Tennen Mountains ranges of the Northern Limestone Alps and flows northwards into the broad Salzburg basin. The Hoher Göll massif of the Berchtesgaden Alps in the west comprise the Schwarzbachfall Cave and the 76 m (249 ft) high Golling Waterfall, a natural monument.

Parallel to the Salzach River, the historic Salzachtal Straße enters the narrow gorge at Pass Lueg. Golling station is a stop on the Salzburg-Tyrol Railway, served by ÖBB trains and the Salzburg suburban S-Bahn network. The market town also has access to the Tauern Autobahn (A10) from Salzburg to Villach.

The municipal area comprises the cadastral communities of Golling, Torren, and Obergäu. Golling proper is colloquially just called Markt ("market").

Town Centre in 1963

Town Centre 2014

Clockwise: Gollinger Wasserfall / Straßenbild / Paß Lueg / Egelsee / Gesamtansicht mit Schmittenstein

Salzbergwerk Dürrenberg - Hallein
Rutschfahrt

Salzbergwerk Dürrnberg - Hallein
Salzsee

LIECHTENSTEINKLAMM
bei St.Johann im Pongau, Szbg.

SALZBERGER DOM
erbauf 1628 von Solari
unter Erzbischof Paris Lodron

Liechtensteinklamm bei St. Johann im Pongau
Hadesschacht

Liechtensteinklamm.

Marie and Judith